I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant Quicken Loans, Inc. (“Defendant” or “Quicken Loans”) contends in its Motion to Dismiss, in this action under the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (“TCPA”), that Gayle Hyde (“Ms. Hyde”) has not plead facts supporting personal jurisdiction. See MTD (Dkt. No. 30), 2:16-18; 5:22-26; 6:6-9, and 20-21. Defendant also contends that both named Plaintiffs, Ms. Hyde and Ms. Amanda Hill (“Ms. Hill,” together the “Plaintiffs”), have failed to sufficiently allege use of an automatic telephone dialing system. Lastly, Defendant contends that Plaintiffs do not meet the Fed. R. Civ. P. 8 standard with regard to pleading violations of the TCPA in terms of the amount of detail concerning the text messages at issue.

As explained below, should the Court not hold that Defendant has submitted to this Court’s jurisdiction through the filing of the motion to compel arbitration, leave should be granted to allege factual allegations to support personal jurisdiction over Defendant with regards to Ms. Hyde’s claims. Alternatively, the Court should grant Ms. Hyde limited jurisdictional discovery to response to the motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction. Defendant’s remaining arguments should be denied in their entirety.

II. LEAVE TO AMEND SHOULD BE GRANTED TO ALLOW MS. HYDE TO ADD FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS TO SUPPORT PERSONAL JURISDICTION OVER DEFENDANT

Defendant’s personal jurisdiction challenge is confusing because it is unclear which legal standard Defendant seeks to apply. In several places in its Motion to Dismiss, Quicken Loans contends that it is challenging Ms. Gayle Hyde’s pleading of personal jurisdiction, which appears to invoke Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) as to the pleading standard in federal court pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 8. However, in other places, Defendant contends that personal jurisdiction is lacking under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2). Thus, Ms. Hyde addresses below the personal jurisdiction challenge under both standards.

A. Outside Evidence Is Not Permitted On A Motion Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6), Except For Information Subject To Judicial Notice

If Quicken Loans only challenges personal jurisdiction based on the federal pleading standard (Fed. R. Civ. P. 8), then outside evidence is not permitted on a motion under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). See U.S. v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 907 (9th Cir. 2003); Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 250 F.3d 668, 688 (9th Cir. 2001). Thus, Defendant's outside statements such as "a fourteen-time J.D. Power award winner for client satisfaction in mortgage origination and servicing" (Def.s' Memo., 1:4-5) may not be considered on the motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) because they are statement or claims not found within the four corners of the First Amended Complaint ("FAC," Dkt. No. 20).

However, the Court may consider documents subject to judicial notice, including documents filed in this Court. See Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hosp., 844 F.2d 646, 649 (9th Cir. 1988) (for purposes of a motion to dismiss, it is proper for a district court to "take judicial notice of matters of public record outside the pleadings"); Lee, 250 F.3d at 690 (9th Cir. 2001) (on a motion to dismiss, a court may take judicial notice of undisputed matters of public record).

B. Leave To Amend Should Be Given To Plead Plausible Factual Allegations To Support Personal Jurisdiction

Ms. Hyde dismissed her previously lawsuit filed in the District of Minnesota (see Dkt. No. 21-2; and Exhibit 1 to Pls.' Request for Judicial Notice), to consolidate her claims with those of Ms. Hill in the present action (see Dkt. No. 21-1), which would serve to minimize the litigation burden on the parties. Notably, Quicken Loans does not challenge personal jurisdiction over it in terms of the TCPA claims of Ms. Hill (a co-plaintiff to Ms. Hyde). However, Quicken Loans complains that the FAC does not support personal jurisdiction with regard

1 to Ms. Hyde's similar TCPA claims asserted in this same Court against 2 Defendant. This is despite the factual allegations that both Plaintiffs are part of the 3 same proposed class of persons allegedly harmed by the same kind of automated¹ 4 text messages relating to Quicken Loans' proposed services. FAC, ¶¶ 13-37.

5 In any event, leave to amend should be granted to allow Ms. Hyde to add 6 factual allegations to support personal jurisdiction over Defendant, in particular 7 concerning how and from where Quicken Loans obtained Ms. Hyde's cell phone 8 number ending "8955" (FAC, ¶ 22).

9 1. Ms. Hyde can plausibly allege fact supporting specific 10 jurisdiction over Quicken Loans based on documents
11 subject to judicial notice

12 Based on a filing by Defendant in support of its motion to compel 13 arbitration (Dkt. No. 29), LowerMyBills.com is a California-based company 14 located in Los Angeles, California. See Dkt. No. 29-8 (Page 3 of 8); Exhibit 7 to 15 Pls.' Request for Judicial Notice. Also, according to Defendant, 16 LowerMyBills.com collected personal information from Ms. Hill (the co-plaintiff 17 of Ms. Hyde) and provided it to Quicken Loans so that Quicken Loans could 18 contact Ms. Hill. Viner Decl., ¶ 21; Dkt. No. 29-1, 7:4-6; Exhibit 4 to Pls.'
19 Request for Judicial Notice. LowerMyBills.com seems to have matched Ms. Hill 20 with Quicken Loans. Dkt. No. 29-7, p. 7 of 7; see also, Dkt. No. 29-1, 2:21-3:1; 21 Exhibits 2 and 6 to Pls.' Request for Judicial Notice. LowerMyBills.com 22 apparently considers Quicken Loans to be one of its Clients. Dkt. No. 29-1, Dkt.
23 No. 29-8, Section 1 (page 3 of 8); see also, Viner Decl., ¶ 22; Exhibit 4 to Exhibit 24 2 to Pls.' Request for Judicial Notice. After receiving contact information for Ms.
25 Hill from LowerMyBills.com, including Ms. Hill's telephone number, Quicken

26 _____
27 ¹ See generally, Nece v. Quicken Loans, Inc., 292 F. Supp. 3d 1274, 1284, fn. 9 28 (M.D. Fla. 2018) (indicating in an TCPA action that "Quicken initiated the calls through 'LOLA,' Quicken's automated telephone dialing system.")

Loans contacted Ms. Hill via text message. Luthra Decl., ¶¶ 3, 9, 10; Dkt. No. 29-1, 7:6-7; Exhibit 3 to Pls.’ Request for Judicial Notice.

Although Defendant does not bring a motion to compel arbitration as to Ms. Hyde’s TCPA claims, it is plausible that Defendant also obtained the telephone number of Ms. Hyde from LowerMyBill.com, who in turn provided that telephone number to Quicken Loans as part of a referral arrangement, and then Quicken Loans contacted Ms. Hyde via text message. Furthermore, the Terms of Use for LowerMyBills.com provide that such interaction with LowerMyBill.com is deemed to have taken place at LowerMyBills.com’s place of business in Los Angeles, California. Specifically, Section 2 states, in bold letters:

THE PARTIES AGREE THAT THIS AGREEMENT HAS BEEN ENTERED INTO AT LMB’S PLACE OF BUSINESS IN THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, AND ANY ARBITRATION, LEGAL ACTION OR PROCEEDING ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THIS AGREEMENT MUST BE COMMENCED AND TAKE PLACE IN THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Dkt. No. 29-8, p. 2 of 7 (emphasis added); Exhibit 6 to Pls.’ Request for Judicial Notice.

That same contractual provision also mandates that legal action “arising out of or relating to [that] agreement ... take place in” in the County of Los Angeles, State of California (id.),² which is the County in which this federal Court is found. Indeed, in Defendant’s motion to compel arbitration, Defendant contends that “California law applies as the Terms of Use, including the agreement to arbitrate, ² Parties may consent to jurisdiction through a forum selection clause in a contract. Nat’l Equip. Rental, Ltd. v. Szukhent, 375 U.S. 311, 315-16, 84 S. Ct. 411, 11 L. Ed. 2d 354 (1964); Dow Chem. Co. v. Calderon, 422 F.3d 827, 831 (9th Cir. 2005).

1 were entered into in California.” Dkt. No. 29-1, 12:10-12; Exhibit 2 to Pls.’ 2 Request for Judicial Notice. Moreover, Defendant contends in its motion to 3 compel arbitration that it is “an intended beneficiary of the agreement between 4 [LowerMyBill.com] and Hill.” Dkt. No. 29-1, 12:17-18; Exhibit 2 to Pls.’ Request 5 for Judicial Notice.

6 Consequently, Ms. Hyde should be granted leave to file a Second Amended 7 Complaint to allege facts supporting personal jurisdiction over Quicken Loans due 8 to Quicken Loans’ business relationship with this District through 9 lowerMyBills.com, in relation to the receipt of Ms. Hyde’s cell phone number 10 from LowerMyBills.com as part of a referral program; and that Quicken Loans in 11 turn used that phone number obtained from LowerMyBills.com (a California-12 based company located in Los Angeles, California) for the purpose of contacting 13 Ms. Hyde.³

14 With regard to Ms. Hyde, it is at least plausible that Quicken Loans 15 obtained Ms. Hyde’s cell phone number through a contractual relationship with 16 LowerMyBill.com (similar to Defendant’s contention regarding Ms. Hill), based 17 on evidence submitted by Defendant in support of its motion to compel 18 arbitration, which documentation is subject to judicial notice.⁴ Should Quicken 19

20 ³ Defendant relies on the Coulon decision of this Court; however, Defendant does 21 not mention that this Court stated in that decision: “This Order is not intended for 22 publication. Nor is it intended to be included in or submitted to any online service 23 such as Westlaw or Lexis.” Coulon v. Richard Fairbank of Capital One, No. CV 24 17-5340 FMO (FFMx), 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 157348, at *5-6 C.D. Cal. Sep. 14, 25 2018 (boldface in original).

26 ⁴ Ms. Hyde reserves the right to challenge a motion to compel arbitration that may 27 be filed as to her TCPA claims, especially where Section 16 of 28 LowerMyBills.com’s Terms of Use disclaims any liability for acts of third parties, indicating in part that “dealings with any third parties” “are solely between [the consumer] and such third party” (Dkt. No. 29-8, p. 7 of 9). Ms. Hyde also reserves the right to contest any asserted defense of prior express written consent.

1 Loans have a relationship with LowerMyBills.com in this forum as it concerns 2 specifically Ms. Hyde's phone number, that relationship coupled with the forum 3 selection clause in the Terms of Use of LowerMyBills.com, would support 4 specific personal jurisdiction.

5 Specific jurisdiction "depends on an 'affiliatio[n]' between the forum and 6 the underlying controversy, principally, activity or an occurrence that takes place 7 in the forum State and is therefore subject to the State's regulation." Goodyear 8 Dunlop Tires Operations, S.A. v. Brown, 564 U.S. 915, 919 (2011) (quoting von 9 Mehren & Trautman, Jurisdiction to Adjudicate: A Suggested Analysis, 79 Harv.
10 L. Rev. 1121, 1136 (1966)). As stated more recently by the Supreme Court respect 11 to specific personal jurisdiction, the analysis "focuses on the relationship among 12 the defendant, the forum, and the litigation." Walden v. Fiore, 134 S. Ct. 1115, 13 1121 (2014).

14 As to the first element of the minimum contacts test, Quicken Loans may 15 have purposefully availed itself of the privileges of conducting activities in this 16 judicial forum in California through a likely referral arrangement with 17 LowerMyBills.com (for economic benefit) to provide Ms. Hyde's cell phone 18 number to Quicken Loans. It is also plausible that such a referral arrangement is 19 based on a contract deemed to have taken place in Los Angeles, where 20 LowerMyBills.com is located. See Dkt. No. 29-8, p. 2 of 7 (LowerMyBills.com's 21 Terms of Use purport to vest jurisdiction for interactions between Ms. Hill and 22 LowerMyBills.com in Los Angeles, California).

23 To support the second element of the minimum contacts test, based on the 24 but-for test applied in the Ninth Circuit (Ballard v. Savage, 65 F.3d 1495, 1500 25 (9th Cir. 1995)), Ms. Hyde's TCPA claims plausibly arises out of, or result from, 26 the defendant's forum-related activities in connection with Ms. Hyde's cell phone 27 number. In other words, but for Defendant having obtained Ms. Hyde's phone 28 number from LowerMyBill.com located in Los Angeles, California as part of a

1 referral service arrangement (if that was the case), the Defendant would not have 2 contacted Ms. Hyde on her cell phone in alleged violation of the TCPA.

3 Consequently, the Court should grant Ms. Hyde leave to file a Second 4 Amended Complaint in the interests of justice, at this very early stage of litigation, 5 under the liberal standard for amending the pleadings. Generally, leave to amend a 6 pleading “shall be freely given when justice so requires.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a).
7 This policy is applied with “extreme liberality.” Morongo Band of Mission 8 Indians v. Rose, 893 F.2d 1074, 1079 (9th Cir. 1990). Leave to amend lies within 9 the sound discretion of the trial court, which “must be guided by the underlying 10 purpose of Rule 15 to facilitate decisions on the merits, rather than on the 11 pleadings or technicalities.” United States v. Webb, 655 F.2d 977, 979 (9th Cir.
12 1981). Dismissal without leave to amend is appropriate only when the court is 13 satisfied that the deficiencies in the complaint could not possibly be cured by 14 amendment. Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 758 (9th Cir. 2003); Lopez v. Smith, 15 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding that dismissal with leave to amend 16 should be granted even if no request to amend was made). This would be the first 17 amendment to the pleadings by Ms. Hyde, as her claims were only recently added 18 to this action through the filing of the FAC on April 1, 2019 (Dkt. No. 20), after 19 Ms. Hill filed the initial Complaint as the sole named plaintiff.

20 2. A proposed Second Amended Complaint is submitted 21 herewith

22 A proposed, redlined Second Amended Complaint is submitted herewith as 23 Exhibit A to the Declaration of Jason A. Ibey, for the purpose of indicating 24 specifically how Ms. Hyde could amend the pleadings to cure any defect in 25 pleading personal jurisdiction over Quicken Loans.

III. THE COURT SHOULD NOT RULE ON THE PERSONAL JURISDICTION CHALLENGE UNDER FED. R. CIV. P. 12(B)(2) WITHOUT FIRST AFFORDING MS. HYDE LIMITED JURISDICTIONAL DISCOVERY

While Quicken Loans also purports to challenge personal jurisdiction under Rule 12(b)(2) [see MTD, 4:14-15], Defendant does not submit any evidence in support of that motion, further suggesting that Quicken Loans is challenging personal jurisdiction under the Rule 8 pleading standard only. In an abundance of caution, however, Ms. Hyde respectfully requests limited jurisdiction-related discovery to respond to the personal jurisdiction challenge by Defendant under Rule 12(b)(2).

A. Legal Standard Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2)

A district court may consider affidavits attached to a motion to dismiss for personal jurisdiction. Xcentric Ventures, LLC v. Mediolex Ltd., No. CV-12-00130-PHX-GMS, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 152781, at *26 (D. Ariz. Oct. 24, 2012). The plaintiff bears the burden of establishing that this court has personal jurisdiction over the defendants. See Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Nat'l Bank of Coops., 103 F.3d 888, 893 (9th Cir. 1996) (the nonmoving party has the burden of establishing personal jurisdiction). A plaintiff need only make a prima facie showing of facts that support exercising jurisdiction over the defendants. Tuazon v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 433 F.3d 1163, 1168 (9th Cir. 2006).

Personal jurisdiction over a non-resident defendant is tested under a two-prong analysis: the exercise of jurisdiction must (1) satisfy the requirements of the long-arm statute of the state in which the district court sits, and (2) comport with the principles of federal due process. Ziegler v. Indian River Cnty., 64 F.3d 470, 473 (9th Cir. 1995). The Due Process Clause of the United States Constitution requires that a defendant have “minimum contacts with the forum state such that the exercise of personal jurisdiction does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.” Decker Coal Co. v. Commonwealth

1 Edison Co., 805 F.2d 834, 839 (9th Cir. 1986) (citation omitted).

2 A plaintiff can establish that the defendant has minimum contacts by 3 alleging that: (1) the defendant has performed some act or consummated some 4 transaction within the forum or otherwise purposefully availed itself of the 5 privileges of conducting activities in the forum; (2) the claim arises out of, or 6 results from, the defendant's forum-related activities; and (3) the exercise of 7 jurisdiction is reasonable. Bancroft & Masters, Inc. v. Augusta Nat'l Inc., 223 F.3d 8 1082, 1086 (9th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted).

9 If a plaintiff meets the first and second elements of minimum contacts, the 10 burden shifts to the defendant to present a compelling case that jurisdiction in the 11 forum is unreasonable. Schwarzenegger v. Fred Martin Motor Co., 374 F.3d 797, 12 802 (9th Cir. 2004) (citation omitted).

13 “[U]ncontroverted allegations in [the plaintiffs’] complaint must be taken as 14 true, and conflicts between the facts contained in the parties’ affidavits must be 15 resolved in [the plaintiffs’] favor.” Rio Props., Inc. v. Rio Int'l Interlink, 284 F.3d 16 1007, 1019 (9th Cir. 2002); see also, Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d at 800.

17 B. Ms. Hyde Should Be Permitted Limited Jurisdictional Discovery

18 As Quicken Loans challenges personal jurisdiction under Fed. R. Civ. P.
19 12(b)(2) at this early stage of litigation and prior to discovery, Ms. Hyde should be 20 permitted limited jurisdictional discovery to address that personal jurisdiction 21 challenge prior to a ruling by the Court.

22 A plaintiff may seek discovery on jurisdictional facts, by making at least a 23 “colorable” showing of personal jurisdiction. See Crystal Cruises, Inc. v. Moteurs
24 Leroy-Somer S.A., No. CV 10-8736, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 73376, 2011 WL 25 2604886, at *3 (C.D. Cal. July 1, 2011). “This ‘colorable’ showing should be 26 understood as something less than a prima facie showing, and could be equated as 27 requiring the plaintiff to come forward with ‘some evidence’ tending to establish 28 personal jurisdiction over the defendant.” Id. See e.g., j2 Global Communs., Inc. v.

1 Vitality Communs., LLC, No. 11-cv-07904-DDP (Ex), 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
2 51793, at *9-10 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 12, 2012) (granting limited jurisdictional 3 discovery, explaining: “The court finds that Plaintiffs have made a colorable claim 4 as to jurisdiction and are therefore entitled to this additional discovery. If, for 5 instance, Plaintiffs discover that Vitality makes regular California sales of 6 the allegedly infringing Internet fax services - even through an intermediary - they 7 could likely establish specific jurisdiction.”)

8 Ms. Hyde has a colorable claim as to this Court’s jurisdiction over Quicken 9 Loans, and thus the Court should permitted limited jurisdictional discovery to 10 determine the location (source) from which the text messages were sent, as it is 11 plausible that they were transmitted from a call center in California, given the 12 business relationship with LowerMyBills.com (located in Los Angeles, 13 California). Quicken Loans conducts substantial business in California and within 14 this judicial district, which is uncontroverted by Defendant (FAC, ¶ 3(d)). See 15 also, Exhibit B to Ibey Decl., ¶ 10 (Quicken Loans advertises online that is 16 “close[s] loans in all 50 states”); Exhibit C to Ibey Decl., ¶ 11 (Quicken Loans 17 advertises online a location in San Diego, California); Exhibit D to Ibey Decl., 18 ¶ 12 (Quicken Loans advertises online that it is a licensed mortgage lender in 19 California); and Exhibit E to Ibey Decl., ¶ 13 (Quicken Loans advertises online 20 concerning home loans and refinancing in California). If Ms. Hyde were to learn 21 through the limited jurisdictional discovery that Quicken Loans placed calls from 22 California to Ms. Hyde (for example), it would surely serve to support minimum 23 contact due to performance of some relevant act or transaction within the forum.

24 Additionally, Ms. Hyde should be permitted limited discovery concerning 25 the business relationship between Quicken Loans and LowerMyBills.com, 26 including any contracts or agreements relating to the referral service and as it 27 relates to Ms. Hyde’s phone number; how and when either of them obtained Ms.
28 Hyde’s cell phone number; any decision by Defendant or its agents, as well as

1 LowerMyBills.com (or rather “LMB Mortgage Services, Inc.,” see Exhibit F to 2 Ibey Decl., ¶ 14; and, Dkt. No. 29-8, p. 8 of 8⁵), to contact Ms. Hyde’s cell phone 3 number during the proposed class period, including any agents used in the process 4 and the location from which the text messages were sent or transmitted. There is 5 evidence that the SMS short code 26293 used to send the text messages (FAC, ¶¶ 6 19 and 21) is owned by Quicken Loans, Inc., with a business address in 7 California. See Exhibit G to Ibey Decl., ¶ 15.

8 Ms. Hyde’s limited discovery requests (on the personal jurisdiction issue 9 only) are indicated in the accompanying Declaration of Jason A. Ibey. See Ibey 10 Decl., ¶ 7 (limited discovery requests to Quicken Loans; interrogatories and 11 document requests). These limited written discovery requests were served on 12 Defendant via U.S. Mail on May 1, 2019, following the Rule 26(f) conference of 13 counsel held that same day.⁶ Also, a document subpoena was served on non-party 14 LowerMyBills.com by Plaintiffs on May 8, 2019.⁷ Ibey Decl., ¶ 8. The Rule 26(f)
15 conference of counsel was held by the parties on May 1, 2019, prior to the Court 16 setting a Rule 26(f) scheduling conference (Ibey Decl. ¶ 7).

17 Notably, if Quicken Loans obtained Ms. Hyde’s phone number from 18 LowerMyBills.com, then Quicken Loans would have to acknowledge that 19 LowerMyBills.com has a provision in its Terms of Use that deems such contacts 20 to have taken place in Los Angeles, California due to the forum selection clause; 21 and that legal action arising out of the Terms of Use must take place in the County 22 of Los Angeles, State of California – and thus within this judicial District). See 23 Dkt. No. 29-8, page 2 of 7.

24 _____
25 ⁵ Exhibit 7 to Pls.’ Request for Judicial Notice.

26 ⁶ Discovery responses from Quicken Loans are due by June 3, 2019.

27 ⁷ That document subpoena requests production by May 30, 2019. Ibey Decl., ¶ 8.
28 The first two (of four) categories of documents sought relate to Ms. Hyde’s claims.

1 In further support of the request for limited jurisdictional discovery, Ms.
2 Hyde believes that Defendant would likely rely upon to assert a defense of 3 consent for the text messages it sent to Ms. Hyde. Such forum contacts from the 4 business relationship with LowerMyBill.com, if Defendant received Ms. Hyde's 5 cell phone number from LowerMyBills.com located in California, would support 6 specific personal jurisdiction. Quicken Loans is already relying upon its claimed 7 referral relationship (likely a contractual relationship) with LowerMyBills.com, 8 and its forum selection clause, to support its request for affirmative relief in this 9 action through its motion to compel arbitration of Ms. Hill's claims.⁸ See Dkt. No.
10 29-1, 12:18-21 (Quicken Loans contends that the issue of alleged consent from 11 Ms. Hill "are fully intertwined with the Terms of Use" of LowerMyBills.com).

12 Ms. Hyde also notes that the exercise of personal jurisdiction is primarily 13 concerned with fairness to the parties, or in other words, here, the fairness to the 14 defendant in terms of defending the lawsuit in a particular jurisdiction. See 15 Knowlton v. Allied Van Lines, Inc., 900 F.2d 1196, 1199 (8th Cir. 1990) 16 ("Personal jurisdiction, unlike subject-matter jurisdiction, is primarily concerned 17 with fairness to individual parties.") It would be disingenuous for Quicken Loans 18 to suggest any unfairness in defending Ms. Hyde's TCPA claims in this Court 19 when Quicken Loans apparently finds it appropriate to litigate in this Court by 20 filing the motion to compel arbitration of Ms. Hill's TCPA claims.

21 Furthermore, in light of the Terms of Use of LowerMyBills.com, it was 22 entirely reasonable for Quicken Loans to expect to have to defend TCPA claims in 23 this Court, especially due to the choice of forum clause for the County of Los

24 _____
25 ⁸ Such motion to compel arbitration is in reality relying on an affirmative defense – 26 an arbitration defense as to proper jurisdiction (i.e., court versus arbitration). See 27 e.g., Butchers Union Local 532 v. Farmers Markets, 67 Cal.App.3d 905, 928-29, 28 136 Cal.Rptr. 894, 899-900 (1977) (defendant wishing to assert right to arbitration must urge it as an affirmative defense in its answer and court has power to determine whether failure to do so amounts to a waiver).

1 Angeles, California (Dkt. No. 29-8, p. 2 of 7), which clause Quicken Loans relies 2 upon in asking this Court to compel arbitration of Ms. Hill's TCPA claims. See 3 Dkt. No. 29-1, p. 12. Since it is fair for Quicken Loans to defend against Ms.
4 Hill's claims in this Court (Defendant does not contend otherwise), it cannot be 5 not unfair for Quicken Loans to defend against Ms. Hyde's virtually identical 6 TCPA claims which have been added to this action through the FAC (Dkt. No.
7 20), particularly when Quicken Loans also seeks affirmative relief in this Court by 8 filing its motion to compel arbitration.

9 Stated differently, Quicken Loans cannot have it both ways. It cannot 10 genuinely contend that it is unreasonable for it to defend the claims of Ms. Hyde 11 in this Court when it is defending the claims of Ms. Hill (without protesting 12 personal jurisdiction of Ms. Hill) while also seeking affirmative relief through the 13 motion to compel arbitration (based on its relationship with LowerMyBill.com) in 14 this same putative class action, where both Ms. Hill and Ms. Hyde are members of 15 the proposed TCPA class (FAC, ¶ 36). It also makes practical sense for Plaintiffs 16 to have consolidated their actions through the FAC, thus avoiding the need for 17 Quicken Loans to defend against two separate lawsuits seeking to certify the same 18 putative class.

19 Therefore, Ms. Hyde should be afforded limited discovery on the personal 20 jurisdiction issue and then permitted to amend or supplement this opposition 21 briefing prior to a ruling on the motion to dismiss, or alternatively, the Court 22 should hold an evidentiary hearing on the question of personal jurisdiction prior to 23 ruling on the motion to dismiss. When a defendant's motion is based on written 24 materials rather than an evidentiary hearing, the plaintiff need only make a "prima 25 facie showing of jurisdictional facts to withstand the motion to dismiss." Wash.
26 Shoe Co. v. A—Z Sporting Goods Inc., 704 F.3d 668, 671-72 (9th Cir. 2012) 27 (quoting Pebble Beach Co. v. Caddy, 453 F.3d 1151, 1154 (9th Cir.
28 2006)) (internal quotation marks omitted).

IV. THE COURT SHOULD RULE THAT QUICKEN LOANS HAS SUBMITTED TO THIS COURT’S JURISDICTION BY SEEKING AFFIRMATIVE RELIEF THROUGH THE MOTION TO COMPEL ARBITRATION THAT WAS FILED BEFORE THE MOTION TO DISMISS

Regardless of whether the Court finds there are sufficient contacts for personal jurisdiction over Quicken Loans with regard to Ms. Hyde’s individual TCPA claims, “[a] defendant may voluntarily consent or submit to the jurisdiction of a court which otherwise would not have jurisdiction over it.” Knowlton, 900 F.2d at 1199, citing Insurance Corp. of Ireland, Ltd. v. Compagnie des Bauxites de Guinee, 456 U.S. 694 (1982)).

Here, Quicken Loans has voluntarily submitted to the jurisdiction of this Court in this action by seeking affirmative relief through its motion to compel arbitration of Ms. Hill’s claims (Dkt. No. 29), which motion was filed prior to the motion to dismiss (Dkt. No. 30). See Precision Etchings & Findings, Inc. v. LGP Gem Ltd., 953 F.2d 21, 25 (1st Cir. 1992) (citing General Contracting & Trading Co. v. Interpole Inc., 940 F.2d 20, 21 n.1 (1st Cir. 1991) for the idea that “implied submission” to jurisdiction occurs when a party “bring[s] independent action” to “seek affirmative relief”); see also, PaineWebber Inc. v. Chase Manhattan Private Bank (Switzerland), 260 F.3d 453, 460 & n.8 (5th Cir. 2001) (describing Interpole as a case “in which the party seeking to avoid the court’s jurisdiction has chosen to commence the action or a related action in the very forum in which it is contesting personal jurisdiction”).

In filing the motion to compel arbitration, Quicken Loans exercised an independent affirmative decision to seek relief from this Court in this putative class action (see SEC v. Ross, 504 F.3d 1130, 1148 (9th Cir. 2007) (explaining that “a party cannot simultaneously seek affirmative relief from a court and object to that court’s exercise of jurisdiction.”); see generally, Dow Chem. Co. v. Calderon, 422 F.3d at 836), thus submitting to this Court’s jurisdiction. See e.g.,

1 Mississippi Valley Dev. Corp. v. Colonial Enterprises, Inc., 300 Minn. 66, 71-72 2 (1974) (holding that the defendant’s filing of a motion to 3 compel arbitration “invok[ed] the power of the court” and waived the defense of 4 lack of personal jurisdiction); see generally, 1 Robert C. Casad & William B.
5 Richman, Jurisdiction in Civil Actions § 3-1(iii) (3d ed. 1998) (“A demand 6 for arbitration has been held to waive personal jurisdiction defenses”); 7 Restatement (Third) of Foreign Relations Law of the United States § 421(3) (“A 8 defense of lack of jurisdiction is generally waived by any appearance . . . for a 9 purpose that does not include a challenge to the exercise of jurisdiction”). Indeed, 10 Quicken Loans filed its motion to compel arbitration (Dkt. No. 29) before filing 11 the motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(2) [Dkt. No. 30]. Thus, the first action by 12 Quicken Loans in responding to the First Amended Complaint was to submit to 13 this Court’s jurisdiction through its motion to compel arbitration.

14 V. PLAINTIFFS’ FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS ARE SUFFICIENT 15 UNDER RULE 8 OF THE FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL 16 PROCEDURE

17 As explained below, Plaintiffs have alleged several factual allegations that, 18 taken as a whole, more than satisfy the Rule 8 pleading standard for plausibly 19 alleging use of an ATDS, and Plausibly alleging Plaintiffs’ individual TCPA 20 claims.

21 A. The Ninth Circuit’s Controlling Decision in Marks v. Crunch of 22 San Diego Governs the Interpretation of the Statutory Definition
23 of ATDS

24 To successfully plead a TCPA claim, a plaintiff must allege defendant (1) 25 called a cellular telephone number; (2) using an ATDS or an artificial or 26 prerecorded voice; (3) without the recipient’s prior express consent. 47 U.S.C. § 27 227(b)(1); Los Angeles Lakers, Inc. v. Fed. Ins. Co., 869 F.3d 795, 804 (9th Cir.
28 2017) (quoting Meyer v. Portfolio Recovery Assocs., LLC, 707 F.3d 1036, 1043 (9th Cir. 2012). An ATDS is “equipment which has the capacity to store or

1 produce telephone numbers to be called, using a random or sequential number 2 generator.” Satterfield v. Simon & Schuster, Inc., 569 F.3d 946, 954 (9th Cir.
3 2009).

4 The definition of an ATDS has been in flux over the past year. In March 5 2018, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit overturned the FCC’s prior 6 definition of ATDS. ACA Int’l v. Fed. Commc’ns Comm’n, 885 F.3d 687, 692
7 (D.C. Cir. 2018). Consequently, “only the statutory definition of ATDS as set forth 8 by Congress in 1991 remain[ed].” Marks, 904 F.3d at 1041. Thus, in September 9 2018, to provide clarity as to what type of dialing technology constitutes an ATDS, 10 the Ninth Circuit in Marks interpreted “automatic telephone dialing system” to 11 mean “equipment which has the capacity – (1) to store numbers to be called or (2) 12 to produce numbers to be called, using a random or sequential number generator – 13 and to dial such numbers.” Marks, 904 F.3d at 1052.

14 Therefore, in the Ninth Circuit, “a device that has the capacity to store phone 15 numbers and dial them automatically would qualify as an ATDS, even if it did not 16 create or develop the numbers dialed on its own.” N.L. by mother Lemos v. Credit 17 One Bank, N.A., No. 2:17-CV-01512-JAM-DB, 2018 WL 5880796, at *2 (E.D.
18 Cal. Nov. 8, 2018) (citing Marks, 904 F.3d at 1053). See also, Keifer v. Hosopo 19 Corporation, No. 3:18-CV-1353-CAB-KSC, 2018 WL 5295011, at *4 (S.D. Cal.
20 Oct. 25, 2018) (explaining that “an ATDS need not create or develop the numbers 21 dialed on its own” pursuant to Marks).

22 B. Under Marks, the Complaint’s Allegations are More than 23 Sufficient to Establish Defendant’s Transmission of Text
24 Messages to Plaintiff via an ATDS

25 The Complaint alleges the following facts concerning Defendant’s use of an 26 ATDS to transmit text messages:

27 All telephone contact by Defendant or affiliates, 28 subsidiaries, or agents of Defendant to Plaintiffs’ cellular

1 telephone numbers and to the numbers of the members of 2 the Class defined below occurred using an “automated
3 telephone dialing system” as defined by 47 U.S.C. § 227(b)(1)(A).

4 Defendant transmitted its text messages to the Plaintiffs’ 5 cellular telephone numbers and to the numbers of the 6 members of the Classes defined below using an 7 “automated telephone dialing system” because its text 8 messages were sent from a telephone number used to 9 message consumers en masse;⁹ because Defendant’s 10 dialing equipment includes features substantially similar 11 to a predictive dialer, inasmuch as it is capable of making 12 numerous calls or texts simultaneously (all without 13 human intervention); and because the hardware and 14 software used by Defendant to send such messages have the capacity to store, produce, and dial random or sequential numbers, or to receive and store lists of telephone numbers and to then dial such numbers, en masse, in an automated fashion and without human intervention.

15 (FAC, ¶¶ 31-32.)

16 Thus, by alleging that “the hardware and software used by Defendant to send 17 [text messages to Plaintiff and proposed Class members] have the capacity to . . .
18 receive and store lists of telephone numbers, and to dial such numbers” (Id. ¶ 33), 19 the FAC places Defendant’s dialing technology squarely within the definition of 20 ATDS set forth in the Ninth Circuit’s controlling decision in Marks. See Marks, 21 904 F.3d at 1053 (holding that the term “automatic dialing system” means, inter 22 alia, “equipment which has the capacity . . . to store numbers to be called . . . and 23 to dial such numbers”).

24 For instance, factual allegations concerning dialing technology with far less

12 Keifer v. HOSPO Corp., No. 3:18-cv-1353-CAB-(KSC)) 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13 183468, at *10 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 25, 2018) (same).

14 Relying on inapposite, mostly-overruled legal authority, Defendant 15 nevertheless insists that the FAC contains only “formulaic recitations” of the legal 16 definition of autodialer, and then cites several cherry-picked decisions where pre-17 Marks courts found certain specific allegations insufficient, standing alone, to 18 adequately allege the use of an ATDS. (Def.’s Memo., at 7-9). But each of these 19 ATDS decisions was decided long before Marks and is therefore irrelevant in this 20 post Marks world. As discussed above, Marks holds that a device with the capacity 21 to store phone numbers and to dial them automatically qualifies as an ATDS, even 22 if it did not create or develop the numbers dialed on its own. See Marks, 904 F.3d 23 at 1053; see also N.L. by mother Lemos, 2018 WL 5880796, at *2.

24 C. Plaintiffs’ Detailed Factual Allegations Would Suffice Even Under 25 Pre-Marks Standards As They Go Far Beyond Merely Parroting
26 the Statutory Language

27 A complaint need only “contain ‘a short and plain statement of the claim 28 showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.’” Vaccaro v. CVS Pharm., Inc., 2013

1 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 99991, *2 (S.D. Cal. July 16, 2013).

2 Plaintiffs' factual allegations in the FAC are as specific and detailed as the 3 context allows, and certainly sufficient to state a short and plain statement of 4 entitlement to relief under Rule 8. Quicken Loans' demand for specific details 5 about the "hardware" and "software" of the dialer used is much more than a 6 plaintiff is required at the pleading stage. Reichman v. Poshmark, Inc., 267 F.
7 Supp. 3d 1278, 1286 (S.D. Cal. 2017) ("At th[e] [pleading] stage of the 8 proceeding, it would be unreasonable to require Plaintiff, without the benefit of 9 discovery, to describe the technical details of Defendant's alleged ATDS"). Instead, 10 Plaintiffs' FAC actually alleges detailed facts describing the content of the text 11 messages and the circumstances surrounding Quicken Loans' TCPA violation, 12 including the approximate time period of the unwanted communications.

13 Prior to the recent controlling decision in Marks concerning the meaning of 14 an ATDS, courts had followed one of two approaches in order to determine if a 15 plaintiff sufficiently pled use of an ATDS. Maier v. J.C. Penney Corp., 13-cv-16 0163-IEG (DHB), 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS, *7-9 (S.D. Cal. 2013). Under the first 17 approach, courts allow plaintiffs to make "minimal allegations regarding use of an 18 ATDS in recognition of the fact that the type of equipment used by the defendant 19 to place the 'call' is within the sole possession of the defendant at the pleading 20 stage, and will therefore only come to light once discovery has been undertaken." 21 Id. at 7 (citation omitted). Under the second approach, "plaintiffs must go beyond 22 simply using statutory language alleging the defendant's use of an ATDS and must 23 include factual allegations about the 'call' within the complaint allowing for a 24 reasonable inference that an ATDS was used." Id. at 8 (citation omitted). Plaintiffs' 25 FAC here satisfies both approaches.

26 1. First approach

27 Under the first approach, Plaintiffs have provided the alleged the SMS code 28 used to send the text messages, the date and time the text messages were received,

1 including a description of the content of those messages, and stated their belief 2 that the SMS text messages were sent using equipment that has the capacity to dial 3 and store telephone numbers without human intervention, and has the capacity to 4 store or produce telephone numbers to be called, using a random sequential 5 number generator. (FAC, ¶¶ 13-29, and 31-33). See e.g., In re Jiffy Lube Int'l, Inc., 6 847 F.Supp.2d 1253, 1260 (S.D. Cal. 2012) (“Plaintiffs have stated that they 7 received a text message from an SMS short code and that the message was sent by 8 a machine with the capacity to store or produce random telephone numbers. While 9 additional factual details about the machines might be helpful, further facts are not 10 required to move beyond the pleading stage.”) (citation omitted). See also, 11 Mashiri v. Ocwen Loan Servicing, LLC, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 154534 (S.D. Cal.
12 Oct. 28, 2013); Reichman, 267 F. Supp. 3d at 1286 (“At th[e] [pleading] stage of 13 the proceeding, it would be unreasonable to require Plaintiff, without the benefit 14 of discovery, to describe the technical details of Defendant's alleged ATDS.”).

15 2. Second approach

16 The allegations also satisfy the second approach taken by some courts, 17 because Plaintiffs’ FAC went “beyond simply using statutory language” to 18 “[allow] for a reasonable inference that an ATDS was used.” See e.g. Maier, 2013 19 U.S. Dist. LEXI 84246 *8.

20 The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has provided examples of facts that 21 suggest an ATDS was used. In Flores v. Adir Int'l, LLC, 685 F.App'x 533, 533
22 (9th Cir. 2017), which was prior to the ATDS decision in Marks, the Ninth Circuit 23 Court of Appeals reversed the lower court’s dismissal of the complaint because 24 plaintiff had adequately alleged sufficient facts to support the inference that an 25 ATDS was used. See Armstrong v. Investor's Bus. Daily, Inc., 2018 U.S. Dist.
26 LEXIS 216246, at *16 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 21, 2018). The Ninth Circuit relied on 27 plaintiff’s allegations that: (1) defendant “sent [plaintiff] an identical text message 28 on four separate occasions”; (2) plaintiff “sent a text message back to [defendant]

1 saying 'Stop,' and after sending that message, [plaintiff] 'almost immediately' 2 received another text message” stating that plaintiff would no longer receive text 3 messages from defendant; (3) after plaintiff said stop, plaintiff “continued to 4 receive the same text message on at least three additional occasions”; (4) the text 5 messages “were generically formatted and appeared to be scripted” and did not 6 reference plaintiff directly; and (5) “the texts came from an SMS shortcode, 7 which are typically associated with automated services.” Id. at *16-17.

8 Plaintiffs here allege each of these facts to plausibly support the conclusion 9 that Quicken Loan’s text messaging system is an ATDS. Plaintiffs unambiguously 10 describe how: (1) Quicken Loans repeatedly sent Plaintiff Hyde an identical text 11 message for months (FAC ¶ 23); (2) Plaintiffs both responded with a “STOP” text 12 message to Quicken Loans, and, almost immediately, Quicken Loans responded 13 that Plaintiffs were “unsubscribed” (Id. at ¶¶ 14-16; 25-26); (3) despite requesting 14 that Quicken Loans stop, Quicken Loans continued to send Plaintiffs text 15 messages (Id. ¶¶ 14-16; 23-29); (4) all of the text messages were generic in nature 16 (Id. at ¶¶ 14-15; 22; 26; 28); and (5) Plaintiffs alleged that Quicken Loans sent the 17 texts via its SMS shortcode “26293” (Id. at ¶¶ 14-16; 19; 22-23; 27).

18 On top of this overwhelming amount of factual support alleged prior to any 19 discovery, Plaintiffs also allege that Quicken Loans sent these text messages en 20 masse to thousands of people (FAC, ¶ 32), which is supported by the fact that 21 multiple proposed class actions were filed across the country. See Def.’s Memo., 22 at p. 3. Not only have courts found this to be a sign of use of an ATDS (see Meyer 23 v. Bebe Stores, Inc., 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12060, at *12-14 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 2, 24 2015); Robbins v. Coca-Cola-Company, No. 13-CV-132 - IEG (NLS), 2013 U.S.
25 Dist. LEXIS 72725, at *7-8 (S.D. Cal. May 22, 2013) (“Here, Plaintiffs allege 26 numerous text messages received without prior consent, sent nationwide and en 27 masse via SMS, promoting Coke Zero and other Coke products. [See Doc. No. 1 28 at ¶¶12-17.] These allegations, though indirect, suffice to plead the use of an

1 ATDS in connection with Plaintiffs' TCPA claims.'')), but the TCPA was 2 designed, in part, to protect the public from impersonal mass calls. See Kramer v.
3 Autobytel, Inc., 759 F.Supp.2d 1165, 1172 (N.D. Cal. 2010). These facts make it
4 highly plausible that Quicken Loans used an ATDS and satisfy the applicable 5 pleading standard in this non-fraud action.

6 D. Defendant's Case Law Supports Plausible Use of an ATDS

7 Many of the cases Quicken Loans cites in its Motion to Dismiss actually 8 illustrate that Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged use of an ATDS. See Baranski v.
9 NCO Fin. Sys., 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 37880, at *17 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 21, 2014)
10 ("As various courts have made clear, the use of an ATDS can be plausibly 11 inferred from allegations regarding ... 'the generic content of the message he 12 received.'") (citation omitted); Musenge v. SmartWay of the Carolinas, LLC, 2018 13 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 158044, at *7 (W.D.N.C. Sep. 17, 2018) ("Simply alleging the 14 use of an ATDS system and supporting that allegation with observations of the 15 nature of the calls or text messages would suffice."); Rhinehart v. Diversified 16 Cent., Inc., 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5141, at *21 (N.D. Ala. Jan. 11, 2018) (same); 17 Jones v. FMA Alliance, Ltd., 978 F.Supp.2d 84, 86-87 (D. Mass. 2013) ("well-18 pled allegations of an ATDS rely on indirect allegations, such as the content of the 19 message, the context in which it was received, and the existence of similar 20 messages to raise an inference that an ATDS was used.")

21 Additionally, Plaintiffs' FAC provides far more detail than the complaints 22 in several of the cases cited by Quicken Loans in Baranski v. NCO Fin. Sys., 2014 23 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 37880, at *17 ("The FAC contains no new facts about the calls 24 received by Baranski that permit an inference that they were made using an 25 ATDS."); Priester v. eDegreeAdvisor, LLC, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 157961, at *8 26 (N.D. Cal. Sep. 25, 2017) ("Plaintiff does not allege anything about the specific 27 content of the calls he received or explain how that content demonstrates the use
28 of an ATDS"); Gill v. Navient Sols., LLC, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 132491, at *3

(M.D. Fla. Aug. 7, 2018) (“Plaintiff fails to describe the phone messages or the circumstances surrounding the calls, such as the actual messages or conversations, to cause her to believe an ATDS was being used.”); Bodie v. Lyft, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9800, at *5 (S.D. Cal. Jan. 15, 2019) (same); and, Trenk v. Bank of Am., 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 143410, at *5 (D.N.J. Aug. 28, 2017, No. 17-3472) (“the complaint makes absolutely no factual allegations about the content of the alleged calls and text messages”).

Unlike the plaintiff in Armstrong, the Plaintiffs here “plead enough circumstantial or indirect allegations—content of messages, context and manner in which they were sent, existence of similar messages, frequency of messages, etc.—that would create an inference that an ATDS was used.” 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 216246, at *26. Therefore, Plaintiffs’ factual allegations in the FAC are sufficient to create an inference that an ATDS was used in violation of the TCPA.

E. Defendant’s Lack of Fair Notice Argument Is Meritless and Disingenuous

Defendant contends that Plaintiffs’ FAC also fails to provide fair notice to Quicken Loans of the TCPA claims against it and the exposure it faces with respect to Plaintiffs’ individual claims. Def. Memo., 10:10-12. This is not so.

First, Quicken Loans, in citing no binding legal authority, takes the position that the detailed factual allegations laid out above by Plaintiffs are not sufficient to provide fair notice of the TCPA claims. However, several courts around the Country have found that Rule 8 does not require specific allegations as to each call. See e.g., Sojka v. DirectBuy, Inc., 35 F. Supp. 3d 996, 1004 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 31, 2014) (“This court respectfully disagrees with Abbas . . . Rule 8(a)(2) does not require a TCPA plaintiff to plead every detail about every text message or telephone call placed.”); see also, Connector Castings, Inc. v. Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 142906, at *4 (E.D. Mo. Oct. 21, 2015) (Court found fair notice existed because, “In general, this Court has similarly not

1 required exhaustive specificity with respect to every offending call alleged.”) 2 (citation omitted).

3 Moreover, Quicken Loans’ contradicts itself repeatedly. Quicken Loans 4 states that the content of Ms. Hill’s text messages and time is not alleged; 5 however, a few lines later, Quicken Loans states that Ms. Hill provided 6 screenshots of text messages, “received in October and November 2018.” Def.’s 7 Memo, 11:1. Quicken Loans claims that Ms. Hyde did not disclose when the texts 8 were sent, but then later states, “Hyde... quote[s]...two text messages—one 9 allegedly received in November and one allegedly received in December 2018.”
10 Id. at 11:3-5. Plaintiffs also provide photographic proof of receipt of the text 11 messages with the FAC, as well as descriptions down to the minute of when the 12 text messages were received. FAC, ¶¶ 14-15; 22; 27. This is far beyond what is 13 typically required by courts in TCPA autodialer. See e.g., Owens v. Starion 14 Energy, Inc., 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101640, at *14 (D.Conn. June 30, 2017) 15 (“detailed allegations about the time and date of each telephone call are not 16 required at the pleading stage in a TCPA case”).

17 Even if Plaintiffs had not provided these factual details, Quicken Loans’ 18 Motion to Compel (Dkt. No. 29), the filing of which is subject to judicial notice, 19 shows that Quicken Loans has a strong awareness of the TCPA individual claims 20 of the Plaintiffs. See Pls.’ Request for Judicial Notice, Exhibit 1 (Defendant’s 21 Motion to Compel Arbitration (“Def.’s MTC”), Dkt. No. 29-1; Exhibit 2 to 22 Exhibit 2 to Pls.’ Request for Judicial Notice). For example, Quicken Loans, in 23 comprehensive detail, explains how and when it came into possession of Ms.
24 Hill’s telephone number, down to the second. Id. at p. 3. Moreover, Quicken 25 Loans includes the declaration of Parul Luthra, who states that he was able to 26 review Quicken Loans’ business records to determine that Quicken Loans did not 27 contact Ms. Hill until after it received her information from Lower My Bills. See 28 Exhibit 3 Pls.’ Request for Judicial Notice (Declaration of Parul Luthra, ¶ 10).

1 These business records also appear to indicate “when each text was sent or how 2 many texts [Plaintiffs are] challenging,” thus alleviating Quicken Loans’ alleged 3 concerns. Def.’s Mtn, at p.10, ln.20; FAC, ¶ 50. Therefore, it is completely 4 disingenuous for Quicken Loans to contend that the FAC does not provide fair 5 notice of Plaintiffs’ individual TCPA claims. See Nichols v. Mahoney, 608 6 F.Supp.2d 526, 547 (S.D.N.Y. 2009) (despite plaintiff not providing number of 7 bad checks received, court found fair notice since defendant had access to that 8 information within its business records).

9 Thus, Quicken Loans clearly has fair notice of Plaintiffs’ individual TCPA 10 allegations. Quicken Loans’ contention to the contrary borders on bad faith in 11 light of information and documentation in its possession, as submitted to the Court 12 by Quicken Loans with its Motion to Compel Arbitration (Dkt. No. 29).

13 V. CONCLUSION

14 In sum, should the Court find that Quicken Loans has not submitted to this 15 Court’s jurisdiction for this entire action by the filing of the Motion to Compel 16 Arbitration before the Motion to Dismiss, the Court should permit Ms. Hyde leave 17 to file a Second Amended Complaint to add factual allegations supporting specific 18 personal jurisdiction over Quicken Loans. Alternatively, if the Court considers 19 Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss under the Rule 12(b)(2) standard (as opposed to 20 the pleading standard under Rule 12(b)(6)), Ms. Hyde should be permitted limited 21 jurisdictional discovery, or an evidentiary hearing should be held, prior to a ruling 22 on the Motion to Dismiss. Ms. Hyde should then be permitted to amend or 23 supplement the present opposition brief. Lastly, Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged 24 used by Quicken Loans of an ATDS, especially after the controlling decision in 25 Marks; and the FAC provides fair notice to Quicken Loans under Rule 8.
